The Criteria for Success

The Criteria for success is organized into three (3) areas.

1. Output
2. Technical Dexterity
3. Development and Creativity

In assessing Output three (3) factors must be taken into account:

- (a) Endeavour
- (b) Quantity
- (c) Quality

WORLD SKILLS JAMAICA NATIONAL SKILLS COMPETITION

April 23 to 25, 2008

TEST PROJECT

Visual Arts – Needle Craft

1. Endeavour

This is the degree of interest and application demonstrated during the process of achieving the output.

This is usually judged by your pre disposition and capabilities i.e. a student with marked ability through early exposure and teaching would be expected to do very well developing the ability to the fullest, whilst a student whose ability is more latent through lack of exposure would have to work much harder to achieve the same results and catch up.

Endeavour can be judged as your:

- Tenacity in the pursuit of your objective
- Ability to work without constant supervision
- Enthusiasm for the course

2. Quantity

This is the volume of work actually produced in terms of drawing, designs ect. seen in relation to reasonable expectations. You should never try to deceive an instructor, as verbal intentions are not substitute for visible output.

3. Quality

This can be regarded as the nature of the work in terms of your awareness and expression of art / design standards as seen in relation to the art / design criteria.

4. Technical Dexterity

This is the meaning of the dexterity with which you handle and use the various materials processes throughout a normal design course' Assessment of technical dexterity is made solely on the standard of manipulative expertise you actually demonstrate.

5. Development and Creativity

Development – this is the process of exploring and defining an idea between the inceptions and the conclusion.

6. Creativity
